CM recommend not doing any of the visas alone because a very high risk of refusal may present itself, or extra costs through mistakes, if a client does not read all the clauses in the immigration legislation that do change from time to time. A client is much better to engage the services of a registered migration agent, who can accept a fee, and work through each step carefully in sequence.

Migration agents, who operate outside of Australia do not require registration with the Migration Agents' Registration Authority in Australia and are not monitored by the Australian Government! This puts clients, who engage with an overseas migration agent at a very high risk.

Personalized Approach

At Crawford Migration, their clients come first and CM do their best to provide tailored solutions to make the clients' application process as seamless as possible. CM insist on transparency, mutual respect and honesty. CM manages your fees for Department of Home Affairs according to the Migration Agents' Code of Conduct. The clients' visa fee will be deposited by the client to CMs' Clients' Trust Account. CM keeps their clients informed about their visa status and contacts their clients in a timely manner whenever any further documents are required.
